

Privacy Policy

The City of Adamsville may ask for certain personal information to provide, or send the user requested information about city services. Information such as name, mailing address, phone number, email address, type of request, and any additional information you provide, is collected by the city, and is used to meet your requests.

The information you provide is used by the city to meet your request only – your information is never given or sold to any third parties.